VOL. 35. NO. 294.

PRIMARY BILL IS PASSED BY STATE SENATE

Proposal for Amendment Is Defeated; Old Age Pension Bill Passed in House.

BOISE, Jan. 29. (AP)—The Idaho senate passed the direct primary bill today and the house passed the old age pension bill, two of the major issues of the session.

Passage of the primary measure came only after three roll calls, one resulting in defeat of a proposal to amend the measure, another defeating a motion to recede for lunch and the third on final passage.

Although the debate in the senate drew the largest gallery it was scarcely more heated than the house debate over the old age pension bill. The pension passed 50 to 19. All but three of the opposing votes were republican. The vote on the primary was 27 to 17, the vote representing the democratic bloc and six republicans.

Senator Freehafer interrupted to ask if Senator Callahan, (Rep., Shoshone) would be willing to submit the question to a referendum.

"I'll go 50-50 with you," Callahan replied. "I'll agree to submitting the primary if you agree to submit the liquor question to a referendum."

No Reply.

Senator Freehafer, a supporter of prohibition, did not reply.

Senator Callahan said the direct primary would break down party government in the state and open the state to corruption "such as now is seen only in Pennsylvania and Illinois where the primary principles control."

He denounced the primary as being contrary to every principle laid down by "the father of the federal government" Senator Freehafer, Payette, once democratic candidate for governor, defended the measure, declaring the principle of democratic government demanded the primary.

Trusts People.

"I trust the people of this state to nominate their own officers," Freehafer said. "I am opposed to corruption in primary systems of Illinois and Pennsylvania, he said "the only reason we hear of it is because it is forced out into the open."

"We never heard of the millions of dollars spent in Montana in nominating senators to the legislature or the millions spent in nominating Mark Hanna in Ohio," he added.

"If this is government of the people, by the people and for the people why shouldn't the government give the people the right to nominate candidates as they choose," he asked.

He challenged the opening statement of Senator Isaacson, Oneida, that the legislature is charged with giving the people what it thought best; not what the people wanted. If that is true, he said "we are driving toward a dictatorship and we are not looking for a Mussolini in the United States."

Can't Be Bought.

Answering charges that blocs of votes could be bought under the present system, he said "we have a class of people in Idaho who cannot be bought. They can be trusted to nominate their own candidate."

A motion shortly after noon to submit the primary bill to the committee of the whole for amendment was defeated 27 to 17, the exact vote by which the measure was favored last week.

A series of new bills was introduced, including one to place a one-mill tax per kilowatt on power in the state. Sponsors of the bill, Representatives Winn, (Dem., Caribou) said such a law would raise about $400,000 on the 800,000,000 kilowatt hours produced annually.

A bill sponsored by the railroad brotherhood to limit the length of trains to 70 cars was introduced in the senate by Hunt (Dem., Bannock) and Baker (Rep., Custer). A second bill by the same authors declared as its aim to promote safety of employees and travelers on railroads. It called for fixing the minimum size of crews which could operate trains and would specify the amount of training necessary for a crew.

Additional Crew.

The addition of a new engine would call for not only an additional engine crew but for another conductor and flagman.

Another senate bill by Baker would compel insurance companies to examine properties on which insurance was written and to pay full face value of the policy in case of entire loss of the property.

A bill by Senators Murray, Gem; Haggerty, Boise, and DeVoe, Jerome, all democrats, would provide for recall elections and initiative and referendum elections. Petitions would be under a bill introduced by Hoopes, Bonner; Trenstrum, Fremont, and Jensen, Lewis, all democrats. They were in line with a proposed constitutional amendment previously introduced.

STATE CLOSES CASE IN BOMBING TRIAL

Spokane Chief of Police Is Last to Take Stand Thursday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29. (AP)—The state closed its case against Henry A. Ilse, former Spokane fireman, and Thomas Boyle, San Francisco bookkeeper, charged with attempting to dynamite the Cowles Publishing company building in Spokane by calling W. C. McClusky, Spokane chief of police, today.

McClusky identified a trunk containing dynamite as the one he received November 22 from Cleveland Williams, Associated Press correspondent. The chief said he dismantled the trunk and shipped it to San Francisco authorities for use in the trial.

Under cross-examination McClusky cleared the mystery surrounding a Spokane Chronicle found in the trunk, dated November 5. The chief said the paper was stuck in the trunk by D. Edmunds, plant superintendent of the Cowles company.

1927 Case Referred To.

The attempted dynamiting of the Cowles building in 1927 officially entered the records as Alfred Stern, counsel for Ilse, referred to it in cross-examining McClusky. The chief said he had no part in the 1927 trial but intimated he knew Ilse was implicated. Ilse was acquitted of that charge.

The greater portion of the day was spent in the testimony of E. O. Heinrich, Berkeley criminologist, summoned May 1. M. Golden, assistant district attorney, to identify hand writing found on the trunk and in telegrams alleged to passed between Ilse and Boyle.

Heinrich said hand writing on the trunk was the same as specimens of graphology. The telegram money order for $25 sent "Timothy Murphy," later identified as Boyle, who was in Tacoma was identified by Heinrich as having been written by Ilse's hand.

SPRING PRACTICE DROPPED BY MANY

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—The seed of moderation sown in football fields by coaches and graduate managers at their annual pow-wow in New York recently is already bearing fruit in elimination or reduction of spring practice at many of the leading eastern colleges and universities.

Thirty-three colleges today were asked by the Associated Press as to their plans for spring practice. Thirteen are to continue the practice, eleven plan no spring practice. Nine, including Harvard, Yale and Princeton, have come to no definite decision. Indications are, however, the Big Three and probably several others will not call out spring football squads.

REPORTS DIFFER ON FINDING OF MISSING FLYER

Word From Two Sources Say Case Found Dead in Plane; Others Say Not Authentic.

PORTLAND, Jan. 29. (AP)—Conflicting reports concerning the finding of Walter E. Case, Varney air mail pilot, dead in his wrecked plane on Bluff mountain, near Washougal, Wash., were received here tonight. Varney officials said they had no official reports.

Attempts to verify the stories allegedly told by Don Mitchell and Joe Ulewitz, both of Camas, that they had been at Bluff Mountain and had been told by a postoffice inspector that Case's body had been removed from the plane, were futile.

A second report from Washougal, however, said tonight that Floyd Astin, Roy Brown, Ray Fitzgerald and Elmore Baldwin had visited the plane today and had returned with the report Case was dead in his plane. The plane was badly wrecked, they said.

The four young men were reported to have left Washougal at 10 p. m. Wednesday, arriving at the plane at 9:30 this morning. They met the official rescue party while returning from the mountains this afternoon.

Had No Report.

J. M. Mann, Vancouver, Wash., assistant supervisor of the Columbia National forest, said he had received no report from the rescue party and stated he believed he would have been notified had Case's body been removed.

Earlier in the evening, Edward Larney, Camas newspaper correspondent, telephoned the Vancouver Columbia that Mitchell and Ulewitz had told they had been at Bluff Mountain when the party arrived. Subsequent investigation indicated Mitchell had been in Camas all day and that Ulewitz had not approached nearer the mountain than he could drive in an automobile.

Late tonight Harold Creary, Varney public relations man, telephoned from Washougal that he had investigated the story told by the four men and said he believed their story was correct.

GRANGE INDORSES DIRECT PRIMARY

Many Resolutions Are Adopted in Closing Session.

BURLEY, Idaho, Jan. 29. (AP)—The Idaho State Grange in resolutions approved by the executive committee during the closing session of the two-day annual convention today endorsed the graduated income tax program worked out by its taxation committee.

The decision followed conferences between the tax committee and Roy Dodge, Seattle tax expert, employed by the state legislature as tax advisor. The grange withheld endorsement from a plan of taxation proposed by Dodge because it was deemed too entangling.

The grange adopted the following resolutions tonight: Endorsing the state wide direct primary bill and recommending its adoption without amendment; endorsing a bill introduced in the Idaho legislature today levying a one-mill tax per kilowatt hour on electric power; asking the Oregon grange to cooperate in forwarding the development of the Idaho, Nevada, Oregon federal cutoff.

Consolidation of election precincts into districts for election of justices was proposed in another measure by Representative Chandler.

Chandler explained the present law permitted the election of a justice in every precinct although he explained most sections avoided the "opportunity" as a matter of economy.

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 29. (AP)—Two convicts escaped from the Oregon state penitentiary here tonight by climbing over the prison wall under cover of fog. The escaped men are Lee Duncan and Dan Flynn. Posses were organized but an hour after the break no trace of the men had been found.

BUILDING PROGRAM IS RECOMMENDED

Amounts to $640,130 for First Biennium; Much Work Listed.

The report was submitted to the governor and to the legislature in compliance with a law enacted last session creating the board to study necessities at the various state institutions. Its purpose was to put before the legislators a digest of institutional needs which they had been unable to get previously during the 60-day session.

New Asylum Building.

Of first importance for the present biennium the board placed the necessity for a new building at the insane asylum at Blackfoot, and for this recommended $250,000.

Next in line in importance was the need for library facilities at the university, a need which the board advised meeting by construction of a new wing on the administration building which it was estimated would cost $200,000.

Recommendations for the various institutions follow:

University of Idaho—"The board is convinced that additional library facilities should be provided.

The state board of education and the authorities at the university have unqualifiedly indorsed the erection of a first unit of a library building at an approximate cost of $250,000.

The board (public improvements) regrets that it can not indorse at this time the proposal to erect a separate building. It has reached the conclusion that it will be economy to build a unit to the administration building, providing sufficient space for library needs for a number of years."

The board recommended $200,000 for the wing, with additional items bringing the total to $250,000.

Engineering Building.

The 10-year program calls for erection of an engineering building, an agricultural building, a geology and dairy building, and a music and economics building. "The present engineering building should be replaced at as early a date as possible. It is in an unsafe condition for large classes at the present time." For these items the board recommended $800,000.

University, southern branch.—Appropriations of $15,000 for equipping the new science hall during the biennium. Ten year period recommendations included remodeling the first and second floors, the erection of an enlarged heating plant, with the possibility of another classroom building and a gymnasium being justified by increased attendance. $340,000 recommended.

Albion State Normal.—The board recommended $10,000 for providing living quarters for married and women faculty members as a requirement of the biennium. Future needs include a new training school. $75,000 recommended.

To Refloor School.

Lewiston State Normal.—Work shops, reflooring of the training school and Lewis hall were recommended with an appropriation of $6000. Future needs included enlargement or remodeling of Lewis hall or a Commons building, sanitary remodeling of the gymnasium, and possibly a new science building. $75,000 recommended.

Deaf and blind school (Gooding).—Reroofing girls' dormitory, gymnasium and shop, and erection of hay barn, cost $8000. Future needs included additional land, repairs and new laundry, $30,000 recommended.

Industrial training school (St. Anthony).—For 1931-32 the board recommended building a garage, hen house and minor repairs for $2000. Future needs included replacement of Gahalen hall, considered unsafe; repairs to the administration building and new boilers in the heating plant. $60,000 asked.

Need New Building.

Insane asylum (Blackfoot).—"The board is unanimously of the opinion that a new building should be erected during the coming biennium and that funds should be provided by the legislature for that purpose." The main unit of a building was recommended at a cost of $200,000, with wings to be added later. Future needs are: completing the new main building, employes quarters. $200,000 recommended.

North Idaho sanitarium (Orofino).—Biennial needs include floors and foundation repairs and plumbing at the main hospital building, and various minor buildings. The board recommended $20,000. Future needs include a new laundry building, heat-

At about the same time the senate was attaching a provision to the army supply bill to give 20,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat to any agency which the president might designate to distribute it to the needy.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who is sponsoring the disputed appropriation, tonight called a conference of leaders for tomorrow to determine on a program of action. An exrta session is involved.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, democrat, asked the question.

Mills came in for a general questioning by Representative Garner of Texas, the democratic leader, on Mellon's statement yesterday at the other end of the capitol that a deficit of $375,000,000 was anticipated.

Rainey said Liberty bonds descended $1 yesterday and that "very few changed hands." Mellon urged the committee to consider its responsibilities.

He asked Secretary Mills to read the statement he gave the committee yesterday and calmly sat by watching.

CUTTER, JOSEPHINE K IN RACE ONCE AGAIN

Coast Guard Vessel Wins; Tried to Determine If Shots Needed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—The Josephine K., a Canadian rum runner, and the coast guard cutter 145 this afternoon peacefully repeated the race they had Saturday night off Ambrose light and again the guard ship won. The race was held to determine whether the cutter might have captured the liquor ship in Saturday's encounter without resorting to shelling. That speed contest ended with two direct hits on the Josephine K., and the killing of her captain, William P. Cluett.

Gerald Campbell, British counsel general in New York, who has been attending the investigation at the request of the Canadian government, raised the question whether the gun play was necessary. Boatswain Karl Schmidt, who fired the shells that ripped into the rum runner, was in command of the 145 at today's test.

The cutter walked away with the race, making a speed of 14.15 knots, the Josephine K. did only 9.55.

MINES OF THE COEUR D'ALENES

eneral Mines Does Much Work in 1930

ore Than 800 Feet of Drifting Done on Curby Vein, Disclosing Much Arsenopyrite Ore.

The General Mines corporation drifted more than 800 feet on the Curby vein in its property on Little Creek during 1930, according to Ed. Platts, mining engineer and geologist. The ledge was cut early in the year and almost continuously last year and almost continuous work was carried on throughout the year.

While driving the drift the company encountered 25 to 30 stringers and veins of commercial ore, some of which carried high values in gold.

The geology at the General property is different than that of any other mine in the Coeur d'Alenes in that the ore occurrs in crosseviins which cross the main vein at various points.

The ledge is a porphry dike and the veins of ore-bearing crossveins are quartz. The quartz is impregnated with arsenopyrite, pyrite, tennantite and traces of other metal.

Arsenopyrite Ore.

Arsenopyrite is the most conspicuous mineral and it always carries high values in gold while silver and copper appear in the tennantite—a variety of gray copper. The highest-grade crosevein encountered averages about $20 a ton, mostly in gold.

At one point a stretch of about 80 feet contains so much value in the porphry as well as in the quartz that the full mass can be mined, probably for the full width of the dike—approximately 40 feet. This ore body is of a low gray copper ore also appears in the porphry at other points and so can be mined. Gray copper was encountered in the outcropping on the surface and the mine was originally started as a silver mine.

Develops Into Gold Mine.

However, as work progressed underground the crosseviins disclosed the richest grade ore and the mine now contains gold as its highest value, with yellow metal being the most prominent over the entire distance, which ore in sight estimated to average about $10 a ton.

The vein strikes almost due east and west with a steep dip to the south. This dip was not taken into consideration by former operators and they never reached their objective though one tunnel was driven within nearly 30 feet of the vein at that point.

The present operators bought the property in 1923 and after installing modern mining equipment and building started operations early in 1929. Since that time the company has maintained almost continuous development.

During the past two months little work has been done in driving the main tunnel as necessary of replacing old timbers in the old tunnel and retimbering in other parts of the workings has consumed most of the time. Timbering is now practically finished and driving of the tunnel will probably be resumed soon.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—A lifeless stock market which had watched further liquidation of United States government securities during the earlier trading today ambled out of its stupor in the late trading and on the strength of late covering closed higher. The average gain was small.

Short selling stocks in the morning found the market so inert that operators for the decline could make little headway and the creeping advance came after declines of about one point in the leaders. The last hour was the most active period but sales again were only approximately 1,600,000 shares.

Fairly well defined group movements were apparent. Merchandising shares were stimulated by the Montgomery Ward earnings statement, which showed that in the final quarter of 1930 the mail order house had been able to cancel losses of the previous month and show a small net income.

CHANGE MUSIC MEET DATE

Dates for the district music contest which will be held in Coeur d'Alene this year have been changed from April 24 and 25 to April 10 and 11 to avoid conflict with the state declamatory and debate contest, it was learned here Thursday. Miss Edith Johnston, supervisor of music, said Thursday that Wallace will again be represented with entries in almost every group.

Tryouts for the Lyric club will be held in the near future and the boys' quartet has already begun work. It will be composed of John Kingsbury, Archie Towne, Bud McMahon and Everett Robinson. The high school representatives have placed high in recent meets and hope to repeat previous successes.

MULLAN

The women of St. Michael's parish will hold a card party at the Morning club February 13. Three prizes will be awarded to women and three to men. Refreshments will be served, followed by dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brasher motored to Wallace Thursday afternoon to visit with friends.

Mrs. Ed Cochran, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. E. B. Stoker, left Thursday for her home at Wallace.

Martin Myklebust returned from the Coffee clinic at Portland where he underwent medical attention.

Mrs. W. Marsh arrived here Thursday from Reardon, Wash., to spend a few weeks visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Adam Even.

Fred Williamson, Spokane, transacted business here Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Stolts, who have been visiting here, left Thursday for their home at Spokane.

Continuous Work At Ajax Property

Approximately 2000 Feet of Tunneling Done at Mine During 1930; 800 Feet in Drift.

Despite a critical business depression the Ajax Mining company maintained continuous operations during 1930 developing its property near Burke, John B. Platts, mining engineer and geologist, stated this week. The company is one of the oldest development organizations in the district and has been working its property almost steadily for more than 25 years.

During 1930 approximately 2000 feet of tunneling was driven at the Ajax. Of this amount more than 650 feet was in the drift on the newly discovered vein on the Bixby tunnel level.

To date the drift on the vein has been extended approximately 800 feet and is being driven ahead at an average of about 40 feet a week. This weekly average was also maintained steadily during 1930. Total underground work in the Ajax amounts to more than 30,000 feet of crosscuts, drifts, raises and shafts.

Vein the Same.

The present vein maintains an average width of eight to nine feet and is heavily mineralized, containing a sprinkling of galena as well as siderite, pyrite and talc.

The drift has about 800 feet to be driven to reach the old workings, it is estimated. Drifting on the vein is expected to bring the tunnel within easy distance of a promising ore body in that part of the mine.

This shoot was discovered several years ago in the Oom Paul tunnel, owned by the Hecla Mining company. Satisfactory arrangements for a lease on the tunnel were not negotiated and since then the old workings caved in so the extent of the ore body is unknown.

The vein where development work is now being pushed was reached after about 500 feet of crosscutting on the Bixby level. Work on the Bixby level was taken up after much work on the 200 and 400 levels had failed to disclose an important ore body. Use of the Bixby tunnel eliminated hoisting and pumping expenses and the shaft was abandoned.

While no continuation of the ore body from which several thousand dollars worth of ore was taken five or six years ago was found after it was cut off by a fault the ore shoot in the Oom Paul tunnel is said to be out of the broken up area.

DISMISS CHARGE AGAINST SMITH

A charge of reckless driving filed against Lester Smith, Pine Creek, in probate court was dismissed Thursday morning by Judge Paul Batzle. In dismissing the case Judge Batzle said that Chief of Police Dupuis of Mullan, who filed complaint against Smith, was as much at fault as Smith.

Testimony disclosed that a fender of the Dupuis machine was bent in a slight mishap east of the city limits and that Dupuis chased Smith east on the highway and collided with his load of sawed lagging when the Pine Creek man stopped at his order. The testimony also revealed that Dupuis had no chains on his machine although the condition of the pavement was such that chains were needed.

BURY MULLAN BOY

Last rites for Raymond, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shannon of Mullan, were held at Ward's chapel Thursday morning with Father E. A. Schermanson officiating.

STRINGERS CUT IN SONORA WORKINGS

The Sonora Mining and Milling company has encountered stringers of quartzite and galena in its crosscut being driven 800 feet east of the shaft toward a promising vein, according to reports received from the mine this week.

A promising showing of ore was encountered in the shaft sunk on the vein after it had been explored for some distance by a drift several days ago. The present crosscut is being run to explore the vein further east, this method being faster and more economical than extending the drift.

FIND DEER MEAT IN ROAD CAMP

Part of the carcasses of two deer and the hides of several others were found recently by Game Warden Wallace Peterson and Deputy Sheriff Joe O'Neill at the John Tobin construction camp on the North Fork of the Coeur d'Alene river, it was learned Thursday afternoon. Workmen of the camp have evidently been eating the deer meat, according to Prosecutor Elmer Johnston, who is conducting an investigation, and charges are expected to be filed as soon as further information has been received.

EXCELLENT SALES IN ZINC MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—Excellent sales of zinc at slowly advancing prices featured trading in non ferrous metal markets during the last week, Metal and Mineral Markets reports. Much of the buying was for forward shipment.

Lead demands also improved with prices firm and copper bookings dwindled in the last few days. There were reports that dealers were offering copper in the domestic market at 9¾ cents but producers reported nothing available under 10 cents.

SPOKANE, Jan. 29. (AP)—Maintaining its regular monthly disbursement of 25 cents on 327,000 shares of common stock the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company's January dividend announcement of which was recorded today will mean the distribution of $81,750.
